

Industrial Technology Welding/Metal Fabrication

An Associate of Applied Science Degree Program

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION

The Welding/Metal Fabrication program prepares individuals as welders or metal fabricators. The curriculum focuses on the development of knowledge and skills in Oxy-fuel welding, brazing and cutting, plasma arc cutting and carbon arc cutting, Flux-Core Arc Welding (FCAW), Gas Metal Arc Welding (GMAW) (MIG), Gas Tungsten Arc Welding (GTAW) (TIG), and Shielded Metal Arc Welding (SMAW).

The Industrial Technology Welding/Metal Fabrication program is accredited by the Association of Technology, Management, and Applied Engineering (ATMAE).

Additional learning support courses may be required for degree completion.

APPLICATION PROCEDURE

A student desiring to enroll in the Associate of Applied Science degree program in Industrial Technology – Concentration: Welding/Metal Fabrication must:

1. Submit the Northeast State Application for Admission to the Office of Admissions and Records.
2. Indicate Industrial Technology – Concentration: Welding/Metal Fabrication as the desired major on the Northeast State application form.
3. See a faculty advisor from the Welding/Metal Fabrication program prior to registering for classes.

TYPICAL JOB OPPORTUNITIES

Combination Welder: Produces a variety of welds using different welding processes.

Welding Fabricator: Assists engineers in designing, fabricating, inspecting, and installing welding fabrications.

Pipe Welder: Performs welding on different types of pipe using a variety of welding processes.

PROGRAM COMPETENCIES

The graduate is competent to:

1. Perform arc and GTAW welds according to industry code requirements on ferrous and non-ferrous metals.
2. Design, construct, and fabricate products using pattern development techniques, triangulation, and radial line principles.
3. Prepare special metals with plasma cutting and the use of GTAW, GMAW and special processes including preheat, pre-purge, weld, post purge and post heat.
4. Use welding terminology, procedures and joint designs meeting AWS D1.1 structural, ASME IX, and API 1104 Code requirements.
5. Upon completion of the program, all students will demonstrate critical thinking skills for inquiry and analysis, assimilation of facts and knowledge, and problem solving.
